Church Charges Nixon Dirty Tricks Continue

The Church of Scientology, one of 11 religious groups named on the recently revealed IRS "Enemies List" has charged that the entire Intelligence apparata of the Government was involved in dirty tricks and coverups during the Nixon administration. The Church cited its own experiences and data recently obtained from the government via the Freedom of Information act, as well as the continuing revelations of Watergate that such activities were wide spread.

"Most of these activities were the direct result of the personal paranoia of Mr. Nixon and the pressure he brought to bear on the various governmental agencies," stated Rev. Robert Diskin, Church spokesman. "Our case traces directly back to Nixon. In 1959 our Washington Church, the specific Church named on the IRS Enemies List, mentioned Nixon in its magazine. Within two days' Secret Service men descended on the Church. They were rude and abusive and warned us to never use Nixon's name again in a publication of ours. They claimed to be making the visit at the express order of Mr. Nixon. The incident occurred so shortly after publication that we can only assume the Church was under some kind of White House surveillance. There may have already been a Nixon 'Enemies List' in 1959.

"The harassment we have been subjected to since 1959 has nothing to do with an 'activist activities.' We are non-political and are non-activists. Unless one considers activities such as our programs to improve conditions for the aged, and the mentally retarded, activist."

"Documentation of the dirty tricks and disinformation techniques employed by Nixon and the Government which slavishly followed him is growing," said Rev. Diskin. "The recent admissions by Sapy, and the earlier disclosures of FBI planting of false data are typical examples. Nixon should never have been pardoned because there are many more undisclosed crimes and abuses of power which have not yet been revealed. With the implementation of the newly passed Freedom of Information Act we expect to see more evidence of these abuses surfacing throughout governmental Intelligence agencies."

The Church has filed several suits under the Freedom of Information Act including suits against the FBI, Treasury Department, and the Justice Department. It recently obtained documents from the State Department as the result of a Freedom of Information Act suit.

Rev. Diskin cited an incident in 1969 when an American attache in Athens issued false reports concerning two Church vessels used for advanced theological training and marine religious retreats. The circulated disinformation resulted in the Greek Deputy Prime Minister ordering the ships to leave Corfu where they were undergoing repairs.

"Subsequently we discovered," Rev. Diskin said, "that it had been pressure from the American Embassy which had caused the Greek officials to act. A full exposure of the facts eventually resolved the situation and we received an apology from the Deputy Prime Minister, and acknowledgment of the mistake and an invitation to return to Greece.

A similar example of State Department disinformation exposed by the recently acquired documents includes

by Tom Nash

When the Civil Rights Act was passed into law, a number of businesses began hiring blacks to conform with the law. Then in 1968, when the President placed into law his "Philadelphia Plan", encouraging blacks to develop new businesses to ease the strain on the economy, a number of black entrepreneurs entered business for the first time.

Very few of these succeeded. The white business owner expected a rush of black business because of the fact that he had hired blacks in the sales department of their businesses. He was disappointed.

WHAT ARE THE ADVANTAGES OF PATRONIZING BLACKS

Contrary to the beliefs of some who will read this article, it is not advocated that blacks should patronize blacks because of race. It is advocated that blacks should patronize blacks because of economics. ANY MONIES YOU SPEND WITH BLACKS comes back into circulation in the black community, thereby easing the economic strain, and creating employment.

UNEMPLOYMENT

The unemployment figure given for the nation is at a very high figure, approximately 8 percent. The unempoyment figure given for blacks has been estimated as being approximately 11 percent. (In reality if you examine the figures closely, you will find that approximately 15 percent of the black employables are out of work.)

The situation will increase before it becomes better, and the black communities will suffer most, therefore we must begin to think along the lines of economics.

In talking with black new car salesmen, it was revealed that blacks do not patronize black salesmen. One salesman reported that blacks coming into the dealership where he works would stumble over his feet to get to a white salesman to give him the business, not withstanding the fact that the black salesman is working on a commission basis, and if he sells nothing he receives no pay. He further stated that some of these same blacks have called him late at night to report a malfunction of the car and wanted him to come to their rescue.

One stated that were in not for the white customers who patronizes him that he would have lost his job a long time ago. There are many more examples that could be cited, but it is not necessary.

The new car salesman has a variance of from $300 to approximately $800 leeway. In order to make the sale, the black salesman will take a minimum, whereas the white salesman will tell you to take it or leave it. The black salesman is concerned that you get the very best for your dollar. He keeps in touch with you to see that everything is alright, and he is available if something goes wrong. He spends his monies in the community, and some of it comes back to you. Economically this is why it is smart business to patronize the black salesman.

MITHS

In talking with a black customer who purchased his car from a white salesman, he stated that he did not want a black salesman to know his financial condition for he, the black salesman, would go out into the community and spread the word about his condition.

This reasoning was as stupid as anything I have ever heard. First of all very few of us have a financial background that is not known by the majority of the community. Second of all, and most important, is that if that black salesman would reveal any information about a client, he would be out of a job within minutes. If your credit is shakey, it is the responsibility of that black salesman to to assist you in getting the deal. He will work with you and show you how he can save you monies, for it is to his advantage to serve you in the best manner he knows how. He had to be an expert in his field in order to be hired in the first place.

LETDOWN BY THE COMMUNITY

The black community has let down the black business man, for they are dependent upon your patronage. In this racially discriminatory county, few, if any, blacks enjoy the patronage of whites, and if they, the black businessman, cannot enjoy your patronage, how can he stay in business.

WHAT MUST BE DONE

The black leadership of the community must put forth a special effort to educate the black community to ask for the black salesman when they go into any business. They must say to the management that if you have no black salesman then I cannot do any business with you, and walk out of the business.

Social equality without economic equality is no equality at all.

Businessman Of The Year

John is the owner of John Perkins Photo Studio in Seaside, and is the staff photographer for the Seaside POST. Readiness Test Will Be Mobilized By 20,000 National Guardsmen

California National Guardsmen, numbering more than 20,000, will be mobilized this coming week-end in a massive test of their readiness to meet major civil disaster.

Virtually all of the Army National Guard units in the State will be on alert with approximately 800 troops to be actually airlifted to Camp Robers near Paso Robles by Air National Guard C-130s on Saturday morning from the Los Angeles and San Francisco areas.

Basis of the test, the first combined command post-airlift and field-training exercise in the California Guard's history, will be a simulated earthquake of castastrophic dimensions, requiring the Governor to muster both ground and air elements to provide releaf and security and to restore order.

Major General Glenn C. Ames, Commanding General of the California National Guard and State Adjutant General, will head up a team of State officials who will observe a separate command post exercise (CPX), at the Guard's State headquarters in Sacramento on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, December 6-7 and 8.

All participating units of the Army Guard throughout California will be put on alert Friday, and on Saturday morning ten of the hugh transport planes of the 146th Tactical Airlift Wing, based at Van Nuys, will begin airlifting field troops to the Camp Roberts area, a target for displaced civilians in search of food and medical aid.

The field-training exercise (FTX) is designed to test the Guard's capability in performance of security missions,

The field-training exercise (FTX) is designed to test the Guard's capability in performance of security missions, medical evacuation of mass casualties and civil disorder management. It also will demonstrate the Guard's ability to respond immediately to an emergency and provide reaction forces by airlift and will provide training in the establishment and maintenance of sophisticated long-range communications and related skills. The units to be airlifted from among the Army National Guard's 20,000-plus troops in California will be notified for take-offs from Van Nuys and Moffett Naval Air Station near Palo Alto.

Units to be airlifted for the field exercises will be the 143d Military Police Battalion of San Mateo, consisting of 375 troops commanded by LTC Rene S. Marfull of Milpitas, and 423 members of the 1st Battalion of the 160th Infantry (Mech) of the 40th Infantry Division (Mech), under command of LTC Harry S. Hansen, Jr., of Burbank. The Division Commander is Major General Thomas K. Turnage.

In support roles at the disaster area will be the 79th Support Center (RAO) of Stockton, which will be the on-scene Military Field Command Headquarters, the 115th Support Group (Area) of Roseville, the 76th Aviation Group of Stockton and the 175th Medical Group of Sacramento.

Guard units not involved in the actual field training exercise will remain on alert in their headquarters throughout the State and conduct normal weekend drills during the simulated disaster.

Administrative activities for the ambitious test of the Guard's capabilities will be centered in Sacramento at the State Military Department Headquarters. Officials of the Office of Emergency Services and other State agencies will join with Guard leaders to monitor the exercise.

THE combined exercise is designed to simulate conditions which the Guard would face in the case of any major earthquake which could leave thousands homeless, creating widespread property damage and casualties and threatening action of possible criminal elements. Emergency Service units will set up a civilian displacement center along Highway 101 north of Paso Robles.

Code name of the exercise is Operation Gold Bear...

Reduction In Traffic Fatalities

This year's death toll from traffic accidents will be a thousand less than 1973's total of 4,905, California Highway Commissioner Dan Lanza predicted today.

The provisional count was 3,680 through December 7, or 961 less fatalities than during the same period last year.

"Barring a series of highway catastrophes, I am convinced we will close out the year with an outstanding record," Lanza said.

"There are three obvious reasons for this saving in lives, plus three others which have received little attention.

"Among the obvious are the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit, which has slowed traffic, the fact that Californians will drive several billion miles less this year than last, and the inroads we seem to be making on the drinking driver problem. In 1973, drinking drivers have been involved in ten percent fatal accidents than in the past.

"The less obvious reasons include intensified enforcement against all traffic violators by police departments and sheriff's offices, suspension of habitual offenders' licenses by the Department of Motor Vehicles, and the opening of additional freeway miles and other highway improvements by the California Department of Transportation."

35th Annual Boy Scout Winter Camp

The 35th Annual Boy Scout Winter Camp will be held the weekends of January 10,11,12 and 17,18,19 at Yosemite National Park, announced George Kuska, Camping Chairman for the Monterey Bay Area Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The winter camp is a highlight of the year for the 700 Scouts and leaders who attend the two weekend activity. Scouts arrive at the park between 3:00 and 8:30 P.M. on Friday and leave on Sunday. Activities include skiing, tobogganing, ice skating and other winter sports.

The fee per person is $19 which includes two nights lodging and five meals at Yosemite Lodge. Scouts bring their own sleeping bags.

Field Experiments At CDEC

USACDEC, Ft. Ord, Calif. (Dec.10,1974)--With the holiday season quickly approaching, two experiments being conducted by the US Army Combat Developments Experimentation Command (CDEC) are nearing conclusion at the sprawling field laboratory of Hunter Liggett Military Reservation (HLMR).

Scheduled to conclude prior to the holidays are HELLFIRE, Phase III, and the "Night Owl" tests.

HELLFIRE trials, started in early November under the direction of CDEC Project Team III, is a multi-phased experiment to test the laser-guided, helicopter launched, TOW missile system.

In Phase III, both opposing forces, the threat and defense, have the power to neutralize each other. A trial begins with an artillery preparation and concludes when the objective has been crossed by the threat force or when the threat force is totally neutralized.

Simulated casualties are recorded by data collectors tied in to the computer. The HELLFIRE systems in this phase uses the ground laser to acquire targets. The helicopter remains masked until a target is acquired, then it pops up to engage the threat force.

The "Night Owls" started training for their experiment in April while nightly execution trials began last month. The "Owls" are recording data on the difference between using sophisticated aircraft equipment and the naked eye to locate targets at night.

To do this, the "Owls" fly over a hover position and locate targets. Trials vary from the pilots using unaided eyes to light intensifying night vision goggles and night sighting systems. The "Owls" will also be providing scientific data on night navigation using mechanical and electronic aids in addition to the naked eye.

Increase In Auto Thefts

'Tis the season to be ripped off -- especially by holiday car burglars and transportation thieves looking for easy marks.

Thirty-five percent of the cars stolen in California are hit in the last three months of the year, Highway Patrol Commissioner Dan Lanza says, and inflation and recession may boost this year's seasonal total above last year's 47,000.

The traditional way to join the thousands who have their cars burgled during the holidays has always been to leave them loaded with temptingly displayed gift wrapped packages and parked outside the shopping center unattended.

With soaring food prices and increasing unemployment, a car loaded with bags and boxes of groceries becomes an increasingly worthwhile and inviting target. One loaded with groceries and gift packages would be almost irresistible.

The dangers of detection and apprehension involved in transferring such a load piece by piece tempt car burglars to become transporation thieves and borrow the loaded car itself as a sort of super shopping cart.

Transportatation thieves usually are people caught far from home and family as the holidays approach. At the last minute they find they can't get on a plane, or the buses are jammed and they can't afford a plane. So they patrol big parking lots, looking for a car to drive to their home town and abandon.

"These people are not journeymen car thieves," Lanza says. "They aren't fast enough to be unobtrusive at fishing a door lock or hot-wiring an ignition, and there's no reason why they should try these professional tricks when a stroll through the parking lot around a big shopping center will turn up any number of unlocked cars with the keys in them and maybe a few packages on the seat.

"Most holiday car thievery and burglary can be avoided by people who lock their cars and take the keys with them while they shop. Place packages and groceries in the trunk, and at night, park in well-lighted areas if possible."

The work of the journeyman car thief is less seasonal than that of the others, although it is probably at a peak some time after the new car models come out every year. They steal on order and know how to give themselves time to operate.

If the model they want shows up at a shopping center and disgorges a father, mother, and the kids, the thief figures he has a good hour's time on his hands.

CDEC-A Unit Of Choice

US ARMY COMBAT DEVELOPMENTS EXPERIMENTATION COMMAND, Ft. Ord, Calif. (Dec. 9, 1974)-- How the Army of the future should be organized, be equipped, and best fight, in order to assure victory and preserve freedom are the questions examined by the United States Army Combat Developments Experimentation Command (CDEC). CDEC helps provide answers to these questions with various combinations of soldiers, scientists, doctrines, material, and organizational structures in a realistic simulation of future combat -- a military field experiment.

Since its establishment in 1956, CDEC has conducted scores of important experiments at its vast, rugged, field laboratory at Hunter Liggett Military Reservation in southern Monterey County, 55 air miles south of Fort Ord.

Hunter Liggett Military Reservation provides the outdoorsman with a wide choice of activities. Coastal deer and European wild boar may be taken by the hunter and squirrel, rabbit, dove, and other small game species round out the choice. More than 30 ponds and reservoirs offer some of the best fresh water fishing in the state. Sightseers and photographic fans have the Hacienda and San Antonio Mission, plus the rugged Santa Lucia Mountain. The remote and austere atmosphere of HLMR presents a continual challenge to the ingenuity and perseverence of the individual.

The CDEC miliary-scientific team utilizes the skills and talents of its servicemen and women and civilian scientific support personnel in a combined effort to provide the vital military experience and scientific objectivity needed to check the validity of new concepts and doctrine. Computer operators, photographers, truckers, mechanics, administrators, engineers, electronic technicians, and cooks all aid in the conducting of experiments.

Grounded in reality but with an eye to the future, the CDEC team will continue to play an active role in the combat developments process. CDEC's many important accomplishments are regarded not as milestones, but as stepping stones to the future. An assignment in CDEC, a "Unit of Choice," offers you an opportunity to expand your horizon in life.

If you're interested in becoming a member of CDEC military-scientific team see your local Army representative and ask for additional information on the Combat Developments Experimentation Command, a "Unit of Choice."

WE'RE UNHAPPY ABOUT YOUR PG&E BILL,TOO.

Every winter we point out that "the season's the reason" your PG&E bills go up. That's because during winter months you use more energy for heating, lighting, cooking, TV watching and other home comforts.

But this winter, bills will be even higher because of increased fuel costs. As you may know, most PG&E rate increases have been to offset the higher prices we, PG&E, must pay for natural gas and fuel oil.

We are continuing to work hard to be efficient and hold down your rates as much as possible. You can help hold down your PG&E bill too, by following these energy conservation tips.

Weatherstrip around doors and windows. Insulate walls and ceilings. Clean or replace furnace filters if necessary. Keep the fireplace damper closed when not in use. Close drapes at night, and set your thermostat no higher than 68°.

You'll also save energy by turning off lights and the TV when they're not in use. And by not preheating the oven. And tell the kids: "Shut that door!"

The G.E.D. Certificate

The GED program consists of a battery of five tests which require at least six hours and at least two testing sessions, Bigelow said. The five areas tested are grammar and composition, social studies, science, literature and mathematics.

To be eligible for a state certificate, he continued, an applicant must be a California resident or a serviceman stationed in California and be 18 years of age or older.

The tests are given at 250 locations in the state, including any adult evening high schools, community colleges and county offices of education. In order to apply for the certificate, Bigelow said, an applicant should go to a GED testing center, fill out an application form, sign it in the presence of a testing official and mail it to the Bureau of School Approvals, 721 Capitol Mall, Sacramento 95814. In addition, he should request that the testing center send a certified copy of his test scores to the Bureau. He also must send the Bureau a money order for $8 that is made out to the California State Department of Education.

Persons who have taken the GED test as long ago as 1946 may still submit them as credit to obtain high school completion certification, Bigelow said. Those tested in the military may have their scores sent to the Bureau by writing to DANTES, the custodian of test results of armed services personnel, at 2318 S. Park St., Madison, WI 53713.

Deadline For Driver Liability

Beginning January 1, California motorists driving without liability insurance will face stiff penalties ranging from a $100 fine to loss of a driver's license.

The state's first compulsory auto insurance law, which the legistlature passed last session, is designed to protect everyone from "financially irresponsible" vehicle owners and drivers.

Under the new law, drivers may be cited for driving without the required coverage. Noninsured owners who allow their vehicles to be driven by someone else also could be cited.

Albert Espey, manager of the financial responsibility section of the Department of Motor Vehicles, said at least one of every five California drivers (2.6 million) is financially irresponsible because he or she possesses no liability insurance and is unable to compensate victims of an accident.

Espey said that "for all intents and purposes" the new law requires all drivers to have liability insurance because its alternatives to insurance, such as posting a $35,000 advance deposit, are not practical.

The only problem with the new law is that the methods of its enforcement are cloudy, Espey said. "We haven't had any indications from law enforcement exactly how they will enforce it." There is no provision in the law for anyone to carry evidence of insurance with a vehicle.

The statute provides fines up to $100 per violation, and violators could be required to file proof of future coverage for an indefinite period.

It also requires mandatory suspension of the driver's insurance of a person involved in an accident who fails to file an accident report with the department within 15 days if damage exceeds $250 or there is a death or injury.

Previously, there was no penalty for failure to report. Motorists failing to file will lose their driving privilege regardless of fault, according to Espey.

The privilege will not be restored until the motorist files proof of future insurance coverage which he or she must maintain for three years.

In addition, if fault is established by court action against a noninsured driver, he-she or the owner of the vehicle fails to satisfy financial responsibility, the driver's license of both will be suspended until there is satisfaction, and proof of insurance is filed.

THE PERFECT HOST

Paul Masson Emerald Dry Riesling, 5th . . . Almaden Pinot Chardonay, 5th . . .

Hams and turkeys are favorite meats at this time of year, and two fine wines that will enhance either of these meats are Paul Masson Emerald Dry Riesling and Almaden Pinot Chardonay.

Emerald Dry Riesling is a sprightly and delicately dry white wine. Pinot Chardonay (pronounced Pea-no Char-doe-nay) is a more mellow white wine with a rich bouquet. Either wine would be an excellent choice.

Both wines should be chilled three hours before serving.

Paul Masson Emerald Dry Riesling is $2.25 a fifth and Almaden Pinot Chardonay is $2.89 a fifth.
